

FRANKLY FRIGID, FRIENDS! MAKING MERRY EVENT

Yes, the weather was indeed frightful as 10 Miata friends partied in Green Bay for a “Merry Quest”. Nevertheless, those strong icy winds and bitter cold temps did not dissuade us from enjoying an excellent fish fry at Fox Harbor pub, wine-tasting at Captain’s Walk Winery, and “A Frank Christmas” at the Meyer Theatre – all within a short jog from the Quality Inn. (Well, it could have been a stroll, but it was too darn cold!)

Will the elf get his wish? Only Polly Pockets knows. Did the Miata Friends have a great time? You bet! More fun than being at a 2013 Green Bay Packers game. The fantastic, frivolous, festive event included Brian & Jim in their crazy Santa hats, Toni trying to charm the server into giving her an extra tasting of “Titletown” wine, a trip down memory lane for Prange’s customers, an extra helping of Miata-sized laughter from Craig, a few ghost stories, 5 gold rings, brass monkeys (ask Jim T), Mary teaching a waitress about holiday courtesies, Jane teasing us about the Door County photo game, Lynn’s bucket of chex mix, Dave “accidentally” forgetting to wear his elf-eared hat, Ginger inadvertently purchasing a very expensive bottle of wine, and Denny sporting his “Grumpy Old Men” hat.

We stayed up late sharing stories and food and beverages and each other’s company. Thanks to the Quality Inn for providing a very nice accommodation and serving us at our very own table at breakfast. And thanks to Thomases for arranging the second “A Frank Christmas” outing.
